Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.When a person wants an excuse, any excuse will do. I often talk about some of the recent entrepreneurs who have become billionaires. Steve Jobs, Bill Gates (the richest man in the world), Sergey Brin and Larry Page (the Google boys), Michael Dell with Dell Computers. And then we think, Oh yeah, but they were in technology. I can't do that - I'm not good in technology. They were there at the beginning of the movement and I've missed that. Like I said, when you want an excuse, any excuse will do. On the other hand, there's Colonel Harlan Sanders, who as a senior citizen goes out to form - with no resources - a business based on fried chicken. Now, what was new and revolutionary, and a new megatrend, about fried chicken? What was new and revolutionary and a new megatrend about another hamburger, like Ray Kroc offered? What was new, revolutionary, and high-tech about another store where you can buy a few things, as Sam Walton created? An Australian entrepreneur is doing $30 million worth of business a year nowadays in the furniture moving business. He has 500 employees. No wonder you don't hear about him - because compared to people like Michael Dell and Bill Gates, Sergey Brin and Larry Page, he's small stuff. He admits he's not a big business person. He was wheeling and dealing in the secondhand merchandise business, and these guys are notoriously not wealthy, even if they do have a following that brings them an income. He did what we always say to do. He got conscious. He decided EXACTLY what he wanted....
